But, actually, the "back-to-the-roots" movement is the response to a far more serious reality and struggle than that. It is a response to the fact that the American people are being crushed by the economic system. The system is not working for them, and they are looking for a way out. The system is not working for them, and they are looking for a way out.

Each of these two elements, first, a village and then town, is given a full account of the people, the language of each, the local form of culture and the spirit of the people.
